conclusions about the health and environmental impacts of the WTO. The Tribunal will conclude with a vote by proclamation on whether the WTO should or should not be reformed to protect the environment and public health.

12:00 PM March & Rally

What: ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH, AND ANIMAL WELFARE MARCH & RALLY

Where: Washington Trade and Convention Center, 8th Street and Pine St. Noon - 1 PM.

Contacts: Kitty Block, HHUS, 301-258-3106, kblock@hhus.org, Katheen Casey, Sierra Club, 206.378.0114 x 306, kathleen.casey@sierraclub.org

Lead by international civic and political leaders, citizens will march 8 blocks from the Methodist Church to the Seattle Convention Center for a rally and demonstration under the banner "Make Trade Clean, Green, and Fair." Representatives of environmental, public health, and animal welfare organizations will join political leaders in addressing the rally.

To protest "globalization without representation" and Clinton Administration support for the anti-environmental WTO, to conclude the rally, the American hosts will invite international guests to join in reenacting a major event from America's political mythology by holding a Boston WTeaO Party. Instead of tossing out tea, US and international activists will toss out traded goods brought to us by the WTO that compromise the environmental, health, and animal protection values of people around the world. To underline the international flavor of "globalization without representation" under the WTO, international activists are invited to carry their national flags during the march and rally.
